Corporate Finance Investment Banking Portfolio Management Private Equity Business Development

I am a business professional with a breadth of corporate finance, investment banking, trading, private equity and business development experience. Most recently, I have been involved in both the conceptualization and development of a $150 million Greenfield 4G Long Term Evolution (LTE) data network in Ghana. Previously, I served in a portfolio management role that involved research, options risk management and trading strategy. My career began at a Fortune 50 Healthcare conglomerate in a structured, well-known corporate finance program and I've since endeavoured to acquire dynamic and versatile business experience that contributes real value to any organization. Some of my strengths include:

- Investment analysis, both financial modeling and quantitative methods as well as qualitative analysis of management strength, industry trends and business differentiation
- Proven ability to learn quickly and master complexity while targeting and achieving milestones within both aggressive and conservative goal-oriented environments
- Extensive network consisting of direct contacts and financial intermediaries throughout Africa, Asia and North America
- Strong idea generation and critical-path recognition capabilities derived from the ability to synthesize information from multiple sources and a curiosity to read through a wide range of topics
